FEBRUARY 20 – SEVENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

"Magnanimity

The disposition to undertake great things for God and mankind always accompanies a holy life"

The Gospel of the Mass (Luke 6:27-38) invites us to be magnanimous, to have a big heart, like the heart of Christ. The Gospel exhort us to bless those who curse us, to pray for those who persecute us. It calls upon us to do the good without expecting anything in return, to be merciful as your heavenly Father is merciful, to pardon everyone, to be generous without measuring and calculating. Our Lord ends by telling us: Give, and it will be given to you; good measure, pressed down, shaken together, running over. And He admonishes us: for the measure you give will be the measure you get back.

The virtue of magnanimity, which is closely related to fortitude, consists in the soul's willingness to undertake great things. Saint Thomas calls it the ornament of all the virtues. This disposition to take on important matters for God and for other people always accompanies a holy life. The serious effort to struggle for sanctity is in itself a first manifestation of magnanimity. A magnanimous person keeps his mind on high ideals. He is not daunted by obstacles, criticism, or contempt when it is necessary to endure them for a great cause. He is not prepared to let himself be intimidated by human respect or by a hostile environment. Rumour-mongers or back-biting mean little or nothing to him. He is much more interested in truth than in opinions, which are frequently falsehoods or half-truths at best...

The magnanimous person devotes all his strength, unstintingly, to what is worthwhile. As a result, he is capable of giving himself... There is no greater proof of magnanimity than this: total dedication to Christ, a dedication without measure, without conditions...

Let us ask Our Lord frequently to increase our faith: let us ask for it in the apostolate when the fruits seem to be a long time in coming; let us ask for more faith with respect to ourselves and our personal defects, or to the defects of those around us, when it perhaps begins to look as if those defects are insuperable; let us ask for it when we see ourselves as miserably inadequate for doing all that God wants of us... all these are reasons to cry out: Lord, increase our Faith!...

- Conversation with God, Francis Fernandez
